Custodians retire

Two long-time employees of Earl Prentice School, Gordon and Zeta Phillips, have retired from their duties as of January 31. Zeta has been on the job for 23 years and Gordon for 14. He took over as daytime custodian in 1969 when the original four-classroom school was given an addition, and Zeta took over the afternoon 3:30 to 9:30 shift at that time.

So Zeta has been tied down during weekday evenings all those years and has decided to retire along with her husband who has just reached the 65 year mark.

"I made up my mind I would quit when he did. Going in at 3:30 made it difficult even to go anywhere very far during the morning", she said. "So we're going to try to do a bit of travelling and enjoy our leisure."

One trip to which they are looking forward is to Nashville to hear some country music. And they'll plan others as they go along.

"I know from having the summers off there'll come a time I'll miss working, but I'll find something to do" said Gordon.

And they both say they will miss the contact with the children.

"They are a good bunch of kids," said Zeta.
